EXPLANATORY NOTE

The right to self organization is a universal human and workers' right as embodied in the ILO Convention No. 87 on Freedom of Association. The Convention gives emphasis to workers' right to establish and to join organizations of their own choosing. This right is "subject only to the rules of the organization concerned, xxx without previous authorization". It does not allow the State to restrict this right or to impede its lawful exercise.

The Labor Code has many effective restrictions in the process of union formation. The government exerts too much interference from union registration to election of union officers to union cancellation. This bill will address those issues to effectuate the right of workers to self-organization.

An independent union or a local/chapter only has to give notice of its creation to the Department of Labor and Employment (DOLE) to acquire legal personality and be entitled to the rights and privileges of a legitimate labor organization. The 20 percent minimum membership requirement for creation of independent unions is removed and the ten unions or locals for federations or national unions is lowered to two. This upholds the principle that the 'registration' of unions is only ministerial on the part of DOLE. This proposal is seen as the only efficient and expeditious administrative mechanism to implement the said policy.

The union constitution and by-laws, not administrative authority or regulation, should govern elections for union officers. The same principle applies to cancellation, now dissolution, of an organization.

This bill also serves to void the unconscionable current practice of authorizing any employee the right to intervene in a certification election and requiring a local/chapter to submit to the DOLE its certificate of creation at least five (5) working days before the date of certification election.

This bill is part of a series of proposed amendments to the Labor Code addressing the observations by the Committee of Experts of the ILO as highlighted by the ILO High Level Mission to the Philippines on 22-29 September 2009 on violations of freedom of association faced by Filipino workers.
